

◆ 2015 BOGEY VINEYARD
Pinot Noir | Sonoma Coast

Our friend Mike Cooper farms this small little 1.5 acre parcel and to be here, looking out on the San Pablo bay and further south east all the way to Mount Diablo on a good clear day, you'd think this is grape growing paradise. And it just might be.

The 2015 Bogey has unmistakable mountain quality to it that makes it probably the most savory of our 2015 Pinots. The tannins are long and precise rather than drying and there's a real earth quality to the wine.

Right out of the glass, the essence of crushed rose petal intermingles with a slight hint of mint and black berry. The flavors are iron, gravel and sweet black plum. There wine has a great, crisp acidity that ties the whole package together.

As is the case for many Pinot Noir Producers throughout California, we love this wine, but are sad there's just such a small amount of it.
